

AVIATION SECURITY

Few subjects have captured world attention more than aviation security since the events of September 11, 2001. What we learned from those unforgettable images of that day is the vast gap between vision and reality. This gap continues to exist. Aviation Operations Solutions understands your needs in coming to terms with security. Aviation Operations Solutions addresses the relevant issues, one point at a time.

At Aviation Operations Solutions we can help an authority, an airport or an individual carrier bridge the gap which the FAA, IATA or ICAO may cite to withhold operating authority into an important market. Our experience in meeting increased government requirements and our knowledge of security systems helps our customers overcome the obstacles, which many localities now face.

We live in a shrinking world... time, distance and space no longer separate us as before. What knowledge and implementation of secure systems brings is access to the markets most important to you.

Let Aviation Operations Solutions explore with you ways to ensure that security will not be an area of concern, now or in the future.
